Prices of Edible Oils at retail level

*185. SHRI KAMAL MORARKA: Will the Minister of CIVIL SUPPLIES, CONSUMER AFFAIRS AND PUBLIC DISTRIBUTION be pleased to state:

(a) the prices of edible oils at retail level during the last six months, month-wise;

(b) what is the manner in which these compare with the prices that prevailed during the same period of 1992;

(c) what are the reasons for increase in price of edible oils especially groundnut oil; and

(d) what steps are being taken to provide groundnut oil at reasonable prices?

THE MINISTER OF CIVIL SUPPLIES, CONSUMER AFFAIRS AND PUBLIC DISTRIBUTION (SHRI A.K. ANTONY): (a) and (b) A comparative statement showing the month wise retail prices of major edible oils during January to June, 1993 and corresponding prices in 1992 is given at the Annexure. [See Appendix CLXVIII, Annexure No. 28]

(c) During the period June, 1992 to June, 1993 the retail prices of groundnut oil declined by (—) 8.3% at Bombay, (-)4.8% at Delhi and <-)10.1% at Coimbatore, mustard oil prices declined by (---)5.6% at Bombay, (-)3.3% at Calcutta and Gingley oil by (--)21.7% at Bombay. Thus, there has not been an increase in the prices of edible oils including groundnut oil during last one year. However, some variations in the prices of edible oils including groundnut oil at local levels could be clue to gap between the demand and supply of total edible oil of 7 lakh tonnes in the country, commencement of the lean supply season of edible oilseeds, increased demand due to approaching festival season and increase in the minimum support price of major edible oilseeds.

(d) The estimated production of groundnut seed and groundnut oil during 1992-93 are expected to be higher than those of last year. Hence, the supply of groundnut oil is expected to be satisfactory in the market. However, Government has been keeping a close watch on the availability and prices of edible oils including groundnut oil.
